

Valentine Dance Sets Social Pace; Weeks and Via Named King and Queen

The social mecca of the winter quarter was reached Saturday night with the annual Valentine Day formal dance.

Miss Martha Via, freshman from Newbern, was named queen of the dance by Freshman Class president Bill Kiew.

Bill Weeks, freshman from Bondersen, was named as King. He was also a popular choice.

Music of the soft and dreamy type was the appropriate theme of such an evening.

Refreshments of heart-shaped cookies and punch were served to the guests.

The Freshman Class goes all-out for this annual dance, and each year the result surpasses that of earlier years.

Students Choose Campus Beauties

In a recent election nine girls were named UTMB campus beauties. They will be featured in the 1953 edition of the annual.

The winners in the election are: Jean Eason, Martha Via, Ona Milligan, Jean Brothers, Jackie Roseberry, Betty Hunter, Gussie Galey, Barbara Lake, and Roberta Braketheld.

Jean Eason, from Smithville, Tenn., tops the list. She was also a campus beauty last year.

Martha Via is second. Martha is a Freshman Home Economics student from Newbern, Tenn.

Ona Milligan was third on the list. One comes from Pittsburgh Landing, Tenn.

Jackie Roseberry is from Hollywood, Maryland. She was a cheerleader this year and will be greatly missed next year.

Betty Hunter also claims campus beauty title for the second time. She comes from Fountain Head, Tenn.

Gussie Galey comes from Memphis, Tenn. She has won many friends and honors since coming to UTMB.

Roberta Braketheld is another girl who hails from Memphis. She was campus beauty last year and it is surely no surprise that she claimed the honor again this year.

These are the representatives of the 1953 crop of beauties on the UTMB campus.

Interest in hypnosis is at present at an all-time high, according to Mr. Phillips.

Mr. Phillips has over a decade of experience in the use of hypnosis technique by dentists.

Noted on this campus and throughout the south as a witty and entertaining speaker.

March 4, he will address high school audiences in Decatur and will return to UTMB March 6.

Waltz Dream To Be Presented At UTMB Thursday

The UTMB Choir will present Oscar Straus' Waltz Dream, an all-musical comedy, on Thursday evening, February 19, in the college gymnasium.

The story takes place in the court of the King of Sylvania who tries to marry his daughter to an unwilling Austrian army officer.

Most of the soloists are well known to Martin audiences for their fine performances.

Speaking parts will be taken by Robert Harry White, Sammy Landrum, Collier Dawson, Nelda Brasfield, and Billy Hayes Hall.

Barbara Lake is our other freshman beauty. She comes from Grand Junction.

Roberta Braketheld is another girl who hails from Memphis. She was campus beauty last year and it is surely no surprise that she claimed the honor again this year.

Coca-Cola Donates New Scoreboard To Gymnasium

Hey, everybody! Have you seen the latest addition to the gym?

The operating board to this complicated piece of machinery consists of a lot of buttons.

The clock on the operating board is used to regulate the time between quarters.

There are naturally four quarters on the scoreboard.

A number of sections of this year's ANNUAL are now at the printers.

The offset method of printing has been selected for this year's issue.

Those who have not yet ordered an annual are requested to place their orders at the bursar's office during the present quarter.

Baptist Student Union Studies Vocations

Are you interested in LOVE, COURTESHIP, and MARRIAGE? No? Well, what did you come to college for?

Special emphasis was placed on future vocations last week.

Each day at Noonday Devotion, special guests discussed Elton Trueblood's book, Your Other Vocation.

February 8-14 was also YWA Focus Week. The girls emphasized YWA and missions in different ways throughout the week.

The week was highlighted Friday night by a panel discussion on the subject, "Christ Will Reign in My Vocation."

The panel was made up of successful leaders of various vocations and represented several different denominations.

Rifle Range Soon To Be In Use

As this issue of the VOLETTE goes to press, excavation for the new rifle range has been completed.

Some vital statistics of the range are as follows: the excavation is 70 feet long and 20 feet wide.

To allow for easier score count, targets will be on a pulley system. Concrete vaults 4 feet deep, 6 feet wide, and 9 feet high, with steel doors, will be used to store targets and ammunition.

WHAT'S YOUR ANSWER, PLEASE!

Question: If you could change one thing at UTMK, what would it be?

Answers:
 Jim Reeder: "Start a course in letter writing for all girl students! You'd like to be an instructor, huh?"
 Elmer Honey Todd: "Shorten those Thursday, Thursday and Saturday classes to just Tuesday and Thursday. I could also comment on our cafeteria menus. Never can tell if I might help."
 Shirley "Gussie" Galey: "No more exams in Bob 'Mr. Bridgman' Well's halluhuh!"
 Alice Adams: "Give these over-studious males a dose of feminine interest. Yeah, you guys, what's a matter?"
 Bill Roark: "A new A Dorm! Did I hear a chorus of 'Amens'—Gene Meyers and Dick Wright? Dick wants a four door Cadillac for rainy weather, and I want a convertible for sunny days, gas furnished by the school." Leave us not get wild boys.
 Bill Lovelace: "Subtract one of Mr. King's arms so I can get my chemistry notes." Why didn't we think of this last year?"
 Robert Scarborough: "Take those clocks out of the ABL to keep the last three minutes from tearing everybody's nerves up." Maybe that's what's wrong with me!"
 Brenda Atkinson: "I would make it illegal to practice more than 24 hours a day for Miss Fulton on 'Waltz Dream.' Yes! oh my aching back!"
 Pat Anderson: "Extend our week-ends to about four days." Just think! Then we could take one complete deep breath!"
 LaNelle Leonard: "Get rid of those 8 a.m. P. E. classes. Just make it 8 a.m. classes. What an awful noise!"
 And there you have it for this week. Well, you can dream, can't you?"

Ambling With Alpha

By ALPHA RUTH HUDSON

My dear readers: I have had a case of run-away imagination. You'll understand what I mean when you continue to read. The following is a satire, or it might be thought of as a churchgoer's cogitation.

"My this is a nice Sunday morning. I do wish though that I could be at home in bed rather than on my way to church. But I'm almost there, so it is useless to make that wish.

"I wonder if my hair looks all right. Surely everyone will notice my new shoes. The heels are a little higher than I wanted but they feel pretty good.

"Oh dear, there goes that Mrs. Holtz into the church. Now I wonder why she comes. I'm sure she doesn't listen to the sermons. And there's Mr. and Mrs. Raft. I wonder if coming to church makes them feel any better about all those parties they give and attend. They probably think they are making amends for their sins.

"I'm just in time. Oh, why did I sit here. With that hugh who hid in front of me. I won't be able to see hear or think.

"I surely do like these carpets. It might have been more serviceable if they had bought darker ones, but these look nice. I wonder if I should get a new rug for my living room. Let's see, when was it that I got that brown one? Julie must have been about three years old, because I remember she spilled some ink on it. It took forever to get that out. Three bottles of eradicator if I remember correctly.

"The choir is better today than usual. Sounds almost beautiful. Bro. Rowe looks bad. I wonder if his wife is sick again. She is such a burden to him. He is a good man. However, it's a sure thing he can't preach.

"Ah, a prayer. Now I'll have an excuse to close my eyes. I should have bought some Marlene at the drugstore yesterday. I'll have to remember to do that first thing tomorrow.

"What did he say? Pray for our member who is in the hospital. I didn't know anyone was in the hospital. Maybe I'm not acquainted with the person. I wonder if this prayer is getting any higher than the ceiling. But then that is not for me to judge.

"Well, I guess the next thing

Fashions and Fads

Fashions and fads are a constant presence in our lives. They change rapidly and often seem to come and go without warning. In the world of fashion, there are always new trends to be discovered. From the latest styles in clothing to the newest fads in accessories, there is always something new to see. Fashions and fads are a reflection of our culture and our times. They are a way for us to express ourselves and to show who we are. As the world changes, so do our fashions and fads. It is always interesting to see what is in vogue and what is out of style. Fashions and fads are a part of life, and they will continue to be for as long as we live.

RAMBLING THROUGH REED HALL

The curtain went up! There was a crash of cymbals and the band started playing her song. There on the stage before 10,000 people in Reed Carnegie Hall stood Darling Dottie Arnold. She opened her mouth and out came the beautiful strains of "Jack, Jack, Jack-da-da-da-da-Jack, Jack, Jack." The crowd went wild!

"Baby" Brewer took her place in the spotlights. The audience was tense waiting for her to utter the first note. She took a deep breath and the long awaited moment had come. The crowd relaxed as she sang "When Johnny Comes Bouncing Home."

To lively things up a bit the sparkling, vivacious, alluring Betty Griffin did a running leap and landed in a split on the stage—What did she sing? Of course, "Rocket 88"! Her only difficulty was when her tights split on the second verse.

The tempo simmered down as two lovely ladies, Jackie Roseberry and Jean Fuson, took the center of the stage and in a most worshipful way sang "Little David, Play on Your Harp."

At this point the attention turned to the second balcony. Dorothy Ravage was selling Keithley Pies and it seems that one dropped in the midst of Mr. Murphey's two twigs of hair.

This must have been a mistake but right on the stage of Reed Carnegie Hall ran a little girl in pigtailed and pantaloons. She stopped abruptly, placed her arms stiffly at her sides, and very calmly recited "Georgie Porgie Puddin' and Pie". Then she tucked her chin, stuck her finger in her mouth and said, "I'm Peggy Douglas."

Betty Laws made her entrance from the side doing five forward rolls and landing in a tip-up. From this position she went into a headstand and as she stood there she really cut out on "Settin' the Woods on Fire." As she sang the last line the crowd seemed relieved that she was coming down, but no! Her second song from this position was "No Help Wanted."

A very smart looking lady in the first balcony rose and attracted the attention of Miss Laws. It was Miss Sarah Overton requesting "Charlie My Boy" for C. D. A typical country gentleman in the balcony just above her removed the cigar from his mouth and requested "I'm sending You a Big Bouquet of Roses". The requests were ignored as the two left happily.

Gorgeous Gussie Galey came tapping onto the stage singing "You'll Never Get Out of This World Alive", dedicated to all the people who have the flu. She was a smash hit so as an encore, she sang, "It's Later Than You Think." A distinguished doctor went to the stage and presented her with 15,000 units of penicillin.

Merlyn Helm draped her anatomy alluringly over the piano and put her heart and soul most un-pleasantly into "Kiss of Fire!" In the midst of "it consumes me" Alpha Hudson came barreling onto the stage unharmoniously singing "Water Can't Quench the Fire of Love!"

Doris Ann Milner (formerly Williams) seemed to think the foolishness had gone far enough. As she opened her mouth, over the sound waves came "You'll Never Get Away."

Betty Spence sang "Little Tommy Tucker". (Other comments seem unnecessary.) Patee Thornton requested "Rose, Rose, I Love You." Spence sang it with great exuberance and everyone knew it wasn't raining on the inside.

This was the grand finale. "Mother" Lankford, Patricia Anderson and Clarence James took their places. "Mother" sang "What Is This Thing Called Love" while Clarence and Pat courted in the corner. The spotlight turned to them as they sang "Give Us Five Minutes More." The curtain fell—the concert was over, but not forgotten.

P. S. If anyone could find a place in this concert for "Hot Toddy" ye ole reporter could really stand one. (Uh—pardon, please)—could really natsid stood-F(h)Fe could really stand it!

Note: Any resemblance of the above to the operetta "Waltz Dream" to be presented February 19 in the UTMB gym is purely coincidental—we hope!

FREEMAN HALL'S UPS AND DOWNS

St. Valentine's Day always puts a touch of excitement into the atmosphere that no other holiday is capable of doing. All week girls have been making special trips to the post office, peering into their boxes with high hopes of finding one of those oddly shaped notes of sentiment. Ruffles and lace just seem to go with valentines and next in mind come beautiful girls. Speaking of beautiful girls, Freeman Hall is very proud of her five girls who were selected Campus Beauties: Ona Milligan, Martha Via, Betty Hunter, Barbara Lake, and Roberta Brakefield.

Tumbling is still a pain in the neck (and that isn't the only place) for some girls. In case you might be interested, Ruth Gober is offering free lessons on the upstairs, hall floor of Freeman Hall every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday nights. Bring your own mattress and be your own doctor.

Those letters Nancy Williams has been receiving are really something to read, and their author isn't keeping his identity a secret either. I wonder if those little "notes" have anything to do with the mysterious phone calls she has been getting. Ask Nancy, she's tell you.

Jo Gillespie made a hurried trip home to see Robert before he left for service. Having a job in the book store will make it handy for her to check on the mail more often.

We are happy to have Jane Pitt and Martha Workman back with us again after their illness. Old Freeman Hall didn't seem the same without Jane and Martha.

Men have spent years and years working our formulas in chemistry. The question comes up, is there a formula for making an A (that's a grade)? Well, I think I have stumbled upon the solution. One large chemistry textbook poured over by a brilliant mind for many hours at the time, together with the desire to learn everything plus no social life yields straight A's.

Note of Importance: This information is not handed out through any other newspaper. If you desire to try this experiment write to Dr. John Henry Halifax, Ward 2B, Tennessee State Hospital, Bolivar, Tennessee, who has just completed this experiment.

Attention girls!!! A new way to reduce!! Annie Clay has just found a new way to reduce. Recently she removed her linens and mattress from her bed, leaving only the iron springs. If you think this "sounds" hard you just ought to try sleeping on it. But 9nie declares that this method will take off those extra pounds within a matter of weeks. I have noticed, however, that Annie sprawls on Maggie's bed whenever she wants to study. And so you want to know where this leaves Maggie? between the springs.

Jerry Nowell seems to be his old self again now that Freddie Harrowitz has recovered from the flu. Jerry has a smile on his face for the whole human race. Why, it's almost like being in love!

Elsie is taking a course in child observation this quarter. Sometimes I wonder if she limits her observations to kindergarten children or if she extends the observations on to Buddy. Well, anyway she seems to be learning a great deal.

We appreciate the posters the chorus has put up, announcing "Waltz Dream." Between A's tap dancing and M. A.'s singing we knew that something was coming off, but thought it might be the roof.

Item of Extreme Importance: Julia Beaumont picked 215 pounds of Cotton.

Alice Adams

CAMPUS PERSONALITY

This year something new has been added to the UTMB campus in the form of our Alice Adams.

Alice is a freshman in the Engineering curriculum, and has the honor of being the only girl enrolled here in that field.

She is from Union City where she was outstanding in every way. Here are just a few of her accomplishments. For three years she lettered in basketball, she was a member of the Beta Club three years and served as President the last year. In her junior year, Alice was elected football queen, and was a member of the dramatic and glee clubs. During her senior year she was art editor of the year book, and was elected the outstanding girl in her senior class when she received the Senior Superlative, an award based on character, leadership, personality, and scholarship.

Here in her first year of college, Alice has already begun to repeat her accomplishments. Her male classmates elected her secretary of the Engineers Club, she sings in the girls' sextet and is in the chorus. In the annual performance of Handel's Messiah Alice was a soloist and has a leading role in this year's operetta "Waltz Dream" by Oscar Straus.

All in all Alice Adams is a very accomplished, sincere person.

Thunder From Paradise

By ELMER TODD

Here it is past mid-term and we are fast nearing those dreaded finals. We men are kept so busy that time flies too quickly. (One lecture leads to a test and the test leads to another lecture an unending round.)

Time has moved much too quickly or so the flu makes it seem. The affected members in our dorm have been working twice as long and hard to catch up, and time naturally passes twice as fast. A few of the boys who have been "down and out" with the flu are: "Gismo" Tyler, Goochie King, Bobby Bryant, David Shoaf, Charles Tracy, "Tiny" Jones, James Butler, John Bowers, Richard Sechler, Marvin McIntosh, Harold Fly, Cavit Cheshier, and Leon Dyer. Did I say a few? That sounds more like a roll-call of the Men's Residence Hall.

Clarence "Herschel" James and Ray Powell might just as well have had the flu since Patsy Anderson and Pat Hawks have been suffering from it.

There is some talk about the campus that this sickness is not the common, everyday flu, but is rather some kind of virus infection. (Pray tell me what is not virus infection these days.) For the past two years, that poor little virus has gotten the blame for everything.

The common gripe nowadays is, of course, tumbling—in other, plainer words, Phys. Ed. 211 and 212. On Monday morning we go to class drowsy from the weekend; and first of all, we loosen our bodies by doing body rolls. (That sounds logical, doesn't it?) Next, we roll our heads, first in one direction and then in the other. (By this time we're so dizzy we can hardly stand up.) Last of the warm-up exercises is "Push-ups." (We go up and down, trying to do at least one push-up per second.) Then our tumbling begins. (Shucks, by this time we're so weak we can barely stand up.) We don't stand up—we do rolls: shoulder rolls (oh, my back) and forward and backward rolls (my poor head). Next come the headstands, after which we are left with day-long throbbing headaches. We then move on to more "difficult" stunts. (What could be more difficult, I ask you?) Well, there is the: hand, stand, hip-up, fish-flop, back-extension, and head spring. The class slowly and surely comes to an end. Then to the showers we go. In the showers there is singing and laughter, and all are happy; but WE DO GRIPE. Why? It's only human nature. (Even if we do enjoy tumbling, we've still gotta have something to gripe about.)

season is of much interest to all the occupants of this dorm. The UTMB team closed the home season with their best game of the year. The boys of this house believe that this year's squad is the best that the school has seen in many years. Each man here is now looking forward to all the county and district basketball tournaments, and each one is sure his old team will win. Well, fellows, time will tell.

You know what? It is rumored that Charles Epley has gone to the movie two nights in the same week. My, oh my, what is this world coming to. If there is any truth to this rumor, all we can say is, "Charles, you better watch it or you might drop a point in some subject."

Have you girls heard any strange noises coming from this direction? Well, it's not thunder from paradise; it is only Melvin Barlow, Ray Powell, and David Turner practicing for the musical comedy, "Waltz Dream," which will be presented this Thursday night at the gym by the college chorus.

Speaking of David Turner, he is just about to get thrown out on his ear. Every morning at seven thirty, David cuts loose on a bugle. David, we are close enough to being in the army without the bugle calls. Please, how about a little consideration for those lucky few who can sleep late.

Have you noticed that lonely, far-away look in "Highpockets" Barnes' eyes lately? Well, it's because Dot Ravage has gone home for the remainder of the quarter. Cheer up, Highpockets, just think what a wonderful time you'll have this spring quarter when Dot returns.

It seems as if John Bucy and Douglas Jackson have taken up residence at Reed Hall. (What's Reed Hall got that we haven't got?) I'll bet that John and Douglas could name at least 50 things that they have that we don't have.

This Hall really is beginning to have class. Why just a few days ago three lovely girls (namely Gussie Galey, Ona Milligan, and Jackie Roseberry) gave a wonderful floor show in our basement. It seemed like a floor show to us, but it was only practice to them. They are doing a tap-dance specialty in the Chorus' production of "Waltz Dream."

You can tell that spring is just around the corner, can't you? Do you get that lazy, drowsy feeling, and all you want to do is lie around and— Oh well, I've got that feeling now, so I'll say so long until the next issue. I'm going to sleep and sleep

Vols' Home Finale Is 71-67 Win Over Freed-Hardeman

The Vols. closed their home season with a 71-67 win over Freed-Hardeman on Tuesday night.

The game was a close one, with the Vols leading 35-34 at the end of the first half. In the second half, the Vols scored 36 points, while Freed-Hardeman scored 33.

Bob Kirk led the Vols with 20 points, while Bill Kirk scored 15. The game was a hard-fought one, with both teams playing well.

Another feature was the phenomenal long-range shooting of Beaman. F-H guard Beaman had a deadly long-range shot from a position of 20 feet or more.

For UT, Bob Kirk had his best scoring night of the season and came through with 20 points on 8 baskets and 4 foul calls.

As has been the case in almost every game, the Vols had to overcome a free-throw deficit to win. UT had 28 field goals and 15 free throws to 24 baskets and 19 free throws by F-H.

THE BASKETBALL SEASON

UTMB's most successful basketball season in some years has just been completed. The Vols ended up with a record of 7 wins and 9 losses. This is not too impressive at first glance, but read a little further.

TEAM STATISTICS

During their 16 games, the Vols scored a total of 1092 to their opponents' 1045. This gives the Vols a per game average of 62.62 points against 65.31 for the opposition.

Another interesting team phase is that of field goals and free throws. The Vols totaled 353 field goals in their 16 games to 341 for their opponents.

This brings in the free throw factor. As stated above, the Vols lost several games due to free-throw deficits. Free-throws cost the first N. W. Mississippi game when our field goal average, 28.26, was lost by the free-throw deficit, 11-19.

It must be added here that the reason was not inability to make free throws; it was only that the Vols had considerably fewer chances. The Vols had a total of 472 free-throw opportunities in their 16 games.

Thus we look at the final team statistic, that of personal fouls. For the season the Vols had 402 fouls as against 323 for the opposition. This is a difference of 79. The Vols averaged 25.12 fouls per game to their opponents' 20.18.

PERSONAL STATISTICS

It will come as a surprise to no one that forward Bob Kirk was the scoring leader for the Vols. The stellar forward totaled 248 points during the 16 games, or almost one-fourth of the entire team total.

Single high-game total was Bob Kirk's 27 points December 15 at N. W. Mississippi. Bob also had 24 January 24 against CBC and 21 January 31 against N. W. Mississippi.

Bob Kirk scored in double figures in 14 of 16 games, his two lows being 3 in the Dec. 6 Bethel game and 9 in the Jan. 21 Austin Peay game.

It would be expected that the men who played all 16 games would lead in fouls and such is the case. Bob Kirk had 58; Bill Kirk 55; and Nichols 54.
